The American Voice Heard

Congressional Candidate, Tim Scott joins Republican Congressional leaders in support of one-year moratorium on earmarks.

I am pleased to see that yesterday the House Republicans announced they will not seek congressional earmarks this year. This is an important step in reining in government spending and the funding of special interest projects, and restoring the American voice in Washington.

Last week, I signed the House Earmark Reform Pledge put forth by the Citizens Against Government Waste. By signing this pledge, I am committing to end the hold of the special interests on Washington and the funding of projects that do not benefit American citizens. You can be sure that I am going to Washington to change politics as usual and be a voice for overburdened taxpayers and families.

But I need your help.

Please visit my website, www.VoteTimScott.com and join my team, donate to my campaign, and please ask 10 of your friends to do the same. With your help, we can take back Washington and restore fiscal responsibility to Congress.
