TIM SCOTT THANKS CITIZENS FOR STANDING UP, CALLS TAX DAY “AN AMERICAN REVIVAL”

S.C. Rep. Tim Scott – who has been endorsed for the First Congressional District seat by the Club for Growth, dozens of South Carolina businesses and most recently S.C. Speaker Bobby Harrell – issued the following statement commemorating Tax Day 2010:

“What we are seeing today in America is truly inspiring. Across our country, people are uniting in defense of their liberties as well as their wallets and pocketbooks. They’re saying ‘enough’s enough,’ and they’re demanding real change – not the sort of smoke and mirrors change we’ve seen from President Barack Obama and his Congressional allies.

Republican voters are also demanding that they be represented by real fiscal conservatives – leaders who have a proven record of ‘walking the walk’ when it comes to watching out for their bottom line.

In this crowded race, there is but one clear choice on that front.

Last year in Columbia, I was one of just fifteen out of 170 lawmakers to earn an ‘A’ grade from the S.C. Club for Growth. This year, I’m continuing to protect your bottom line while leading the fight to block President Obama’s unconstitutional socialized medicine plan. In a political environment dominated by rhetoric and reactionary policy, I’ve let my actions do the talking.

We are part of an American revival, celebrating a rebirth of the limited government principles that our country was founded on – and to which our country must return if future generations are to prosper.

To everyone who is standing up and making your voice heard, I thank you. I also invite you to join my campaign to bring your voice to Washington.

We can – and will – take this country back by electing proven fiscal conservatives who will put your interests first for the first time in a long time.”
